ENCHANTING CULTURE AND WILDLIFE
AS DIVERSE AS THE LANDS ON WHICH THEY ROAM

From the glaciers of El Calafate to the stunning rainforests of Iguazu Falls, and the sprawling vineyards of Mendoza to the rugged shoreline and wildlife of the Valdes Peninsula, Argentina's wildlife mirrors the landscape in their diversity. This unique country just keeps on coming up with wildlife surprises and cultural delights.

"We were really lucky with the orcas and saw stranding every day. Our guide did his very best to get us in the right position at the right time to make sure we all went home with some fantastic photos. I feel very privileged to have witnessed this spectacular event, it was just like the BBC documentary I watched a couple of years ago that first got me interested in whales."
